Distinctive Diversity

In our blog, How to Differentiate Mental Health Professionals, we describe the most sought-after types of therapists: who they are; what they do; who they help; what questions to ask when inquiring to find the best fit and what sets apart Dr. Rice and the RPG team from others in their field.

In the Pursuit of Good Mental Health

If you are on a quest to find the best therapist, we help narrow your search with some factors to consider in our blog What to Look for When Choosing a Therapist. Do your homework; ask questions; and take note of the comfort level between you and the therapist. Thorough research and evaluation go a long way in assisting you to choose the best therapist for you or a loved one.

We Hear You!

You have played the critical role of identifying her ADD, and she has really turned her grades, and most importantly, her self esteem around. She is an amazing young woman and has come so very far. Yes, we still have our struggles, but not anything like what we were experiencing when she was in the 8th grade. I just want to thank you from the bottom of my heart. I am so grateful for you!

~ Parents of a college freshman

Thank you a thousand times over for your support of the Parents Support Group and for coming to speak. As always, you were both a delight and a font of knowledge. Thank you.

~ Norrine Russell, Ph.D., Co- Founder Tampa Bay Parent Support Group
